SOCIAL JUSTICE PLATFORM OF THE UNION OF AMERICAN HEBREW CONGREGATIONS

By Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman

At the recent convention of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations in Cleveland, the following social justice platform was adopted. It is hoped that Jewish businessmen, industrialists and workers will make it a guide in their relationships. It is a forward-looking document and represents Judaism in action.

1. The recognition of the principle of mutual service through the performance of economics function as of first importance to our social philosophy.
2. The recognition of the dignity of labour and the realization of society's dependence on the toiler's efforts.
3. That human rights take precedence over the rights of property.
4. That "a man's labour is his very life" and constitutes his primary service to society. It is not a commodity to be bought or sold in the open market.
5. The recognition of the duty on the part of the employer and employee alike to exercise in the adjustments of their own interests a due regard for the paramount rights of society.
6. The duty of the synagogue and its pulpit to speak courageously on human rights as part of its prophetic function.

A HISTORIC CONVENTION

More than fifteen hundred men and women coming from all parts of the continent assembled in Cleveland as delegates to the biennial conventions of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, the Federation of Temple Sisterhoods and the Federation of Temple Brotherhoods, and for several days devoted their thoughts to the ways and means of perpetuating Judaism on the continent. The Union of American Hebrew Congregations was organized more than sixty years ago by Isaac M. Wise, the founder of Reform Judaism in America. Its membership at first was very small. To-day two two hundred and seventy-eight congregations are affiliated with it, representing the leading congregations of the United States and Canada, representing more than 56,000 Jewish families.

The outstanding achivement of the Union was the establishment and maintenance of the Hebrew Union College, the first rabbinical seminary of the New World, and the Alma Mater of many of the leading rabbis of North America and England, the leaders of liberal and conservative Judaism in London being graduates of the Hebrew Union College of Cincinnati. That institution to-day is one of the great seats of Jewish learning. Its faculty, composed largely of its graduates, contains Jewish scholars of note. Its library, presided over by Adolph S. Oko, a great Jewish humanist, is the best Jewish book collection in the world. Its facilities to handle students are unexcelled. A dormitory and gymnasium have been erected on the college grounds to assure healthful living conditions for the Erev Rabbonim. The Union has been extravagant with the College, but it is the sort of extravagance which should be encouraged. The Union has not attempted to economize at the expense either of the

THE AGENCY AND ITS PRINCIPALS

The question of the Jewish Agency has come to the fore again last week with the publication of the latest "treaty" between Weizmann and Louis Marshall, and the correspondence incidental thereto.

Weizmann's letter to Marshall which formed the basis of the resumption of the negotiations between the Zionists and the so-called non-Zionists revealed a capacity for leadership which is entirely lacking in the American Zionist leaders. Quite apart from the merits or desirability of the Agency the fact remains that Weizmann and the American Zionist heads have for several years been committed to the Agency scheme. They were the sponsors of the project, and had been entrusted by the Zionist Congress with the responsibility of bringing it into execution. The action of several of the leaders of American Zionism during the past year or two in picking a quarrel with the leaders of the United Jewish Campaign, and carrying on active opposition to the relief work in Russia was not only stupid but actually criminal. By their extremely partizan and narrow tactics they did not further their immediate object of raising funds for Palestine. And they alienated the body of American Jewish opinion and support which by the implications of their Agency plan they were to attempt to win over.

To undo the mischief wrought by these few zealots was the task which confronted Weizmann during his present visit in America. He was obliged to compromise his personal pride in order to cover up the misguided acts of his American colleagues. In doing this Weizmann showed genuine greatness. His sincerity and self-transcendence have elicited the unfeigned admiration and respect of the people whose goodwill he was seeking to gain. Weizmann acted like a statesman; he saved what the American politicians had almost lost.

The satelites throughout United States and Canada who took their cue from the American politicians and prated "Amen" to the chorus of imprecations against the laudable philanthropic effort on behalf of Russian Jewry will now have to change their tune. Devoid of independent judgment, they blindly followed the lead of the mischievous American Zionist leaders. Having heard Weizmann's blessings they will now have to follow the example of Balaam's ass and start blessing instead of cursing.

However, granting Weizmann's wisdom in making peace with the leaders of the United Campaign and the Joint Distribution Committee, there still remains the old question as to the efficaciousness of the Agency nostrum.

The latest plan of the Agency is to send a commission to Palestine to study anew the situation there, and report thereon. An interim report is expected to be made available not earlier than next autumn. Presumably the interim report will serve as a basis for further investigations and the rendition of later and more elaborate reports. There will be plenty of fiddling while the burning needs in Palestine will continue to burn.

The whole problem of the Agency may be summed up in this wise: An agency must have principals. Who will be the principals

The opinion was that although the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies could not assist officially, each member will pledge support.

MARKED EXPANSION SHOWN BY MANUFACTURERS LIFE REPORT

The fortieth annual report of The Manufacturers Life Insurance Company, as submitted to policyholders and shareholders at the annual meeting held on the 20th instant, indicates a year of marked expansion.

Another record in new assurances was established. The new business for 1926 amounted to $70,630,396, bringing the insurance in force at December 31st, 1926, to $361,166,647.

The assets of the Company increased by seven and three-quarter million dollars, and at the end of December reached the large sum of $67,643,709. Of this amount nearly thirty-two million dollars is invested in Government, Government guaranteed and Municipal bonds. First mortgages on improved real estate comprises nearly thirteen million dollars.

The payments to policyholders also constituted a record. Death claims amounted to $2,159,421; matured policies, annuities, etc., $2,720,951, and dividends to policyholders, $1,327,787. Payments to policyholders totalled almost twice the sum paid beneficiaries under death claims. In addition to the above the Company set aside $1,638,081 as dividends to policyholders to be paid during 1927.

Surplus earnings in 1926 were very satisfactory and have made possible a further increase in the scale of dividends payable to policyholders.

Abramsky—Levin

The marriage of Miss Ethel Levin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Levin, to Harry Abramsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Abramsky, of Kingston, Ont., was solemnized at Venetian Gardens, January 9, Rabbi Berger officiating. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of white chiffon with insertions of Chantilly lace over a white satin slip. Her veil of white net and lace was arranged in bonnet effect with clusters of orange blossoms. Her flowers were Ophelia roses and lilies-of-the valley. Miss Lily Levin, the maid-of-honour, wore maize chiffon embroidered with ribbon and rhinestones and carried sweet peas. Sam Abramsky, brother of the groom, was best man. The bridesmaids were Misses Sophie Krasnick, in a period gown of pink taffeta with lace; Sadie Taffert, peacock blue taffeta with black velvet ribbon, Gertrude Goldman, rose lace gown trimmed with velvet to match; and Sara Weisberg, pale green taffeta with net. All wore hats to match and carried baskets of tea roses. The groomsman were Sam Robinson, Myer Bald, Jack Rubin and Simon Greenspon. The flower girls were Muriel Rubin, Sylvia Deckelbaum, and Annie Goldstein. Jack Krasnick, ring bearer, wore an Eaton suit and a high hat. Mrs. S. Levin, mother of the bride, was in black georgette embroidered with white beads and rhinestones and trimmed with fringe, with corsage of red roses. Mrs. Sam Rubin, sister of the bride, wore a gown of pale pink chiffon, bouffant, trimmed with black silver lace. Mrs. Joseph Abramsky, mother of the groom, wore a mauve beaded gown, and corsage of roses. A reception was held for 500 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Abramsky spent their honeymoon in Toronto and Boston. Going away, the bride wore a Kolinsky coat. Mr. and Mrs. Abramsky will live in Kingston, Ont. The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Abramsky, Mr. and Mrs. Moe Abramsky, Sam Abramksy, Mrs. M. Finkle, Mrs. D. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of white satin trimmed with rhinestones and lace. Her veil of silk net was arranged with a cap of lace and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of cream roses, lilies-of-the-valley and orchids. Mrs. Alfred Cass, matron-of-honour, wore a gown of white taffeta and lace and carried roses and mauve sweet peas. Abe Levine, brother of the bride, was best man. The bridesmaids were Misses Bessie Kalman, in white ring velvet trimmed with ribbon; Pearl Gould, white georgette beaded; Libbie Joseph, pale pink georgette trimmed with beads; and Sophie Katz, in white satin trimmed with ribbon. They carried roses and sweet peas. The groomsmen were Joe Bernard, Sam Bernstein, Mack Kirk and Al Shulman. Ethel Lustgarten, flower girl, wore a frock of pale blue taffeta and carried a basket of Sweetheart roses. Mrs. J. Levine, mother of the bride, wore brown cut velvet and a corsage of roses and sweet peas. Mrs. S. Simcovitch, sister of the groom, wore a green chiffon gown with rhinestones. Mrs. A. Rothman, aunt of the groom, wore a brown lace dress with a corsage of roses and sweet peas. A reception was held for 250 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Max Rothman are spending their honeymoon in New York and Atlantic City. Going away, the bride wore a Hudson seal coat trimmed with fox, and a brown hat.

Kashtin—Rosenbaum

The marriage of Miss Mary Rosenbaum, niece of Rabbi Y. Rosenberg, to Sam Kashtin, was solemnized at the home of the bride's uncle, 9 Esplanade Avenue; Rabbi Y. Rosenberg officiated. The bride, who was given away by her cousin, Ben Albert, wore white satin trimmed with rhinestones. Her veil of white net was arranged in cap effect, with trimming of pearls and orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. The matron-of-honour, Mrs. Ben Albert, wore a period gown of black satin, hand-embroidered in red roses and corsage of pink roses. The mother of the groom wore black satin trimmed with sequin. The aunt of the bride, Mrs. Y. Rosenberg, wore a periwinkle blue cut velvet with a corsage of deep red roses. Mrs. M. I. Richler, who assisted her mother, Mrs. Y. Rosenberg, in receiving, wore black georgette over pale pink, with a huge rose at the waist. A dinner of thirty covers was served to the immediate family.

Some time ago Rabbi Stephen S. Wise said to a lady from the pulpit: "How do you expect a man to preach while you are completing your toilet in one of the front rows? What would you think of me if I were to stand here trimming my finger-nails as I talked to you. If that is what you come into the house of God for, you had better stay away. It is bad enough to start putting on your hats and coats before the benediction is completed, as many of you do, but to make up your faces during worship is going a bit too far. If it ever happens again I shall certainly ask the lady to leave the hall."

This utterance bears all indications of coming from the bottom of the heart. It invites speculation on how many times rabbis have wanted to say that much and more and just what misdemeanours have inspired them. Rabbi M. N. A. C. Cohen, writing in the Bnai Brith Messenger of Los Angeles, bemoans the fact that irregularities of behaviour in synagogue happen in the best of families and among people whose manners are irreproachable in less holy places. He makes the charge that the Christian acts with greater reverence and propriety in his church no matter how humble it is, than the Jew does in his synagogue or temple. There seems to be no legitimate escape from the truth of that statement.

The Christian, big or little, is solemn in church. He may sleep, but at least he doesn't act up. The Jew comes to shul (synagogue or temple) to see, be seen and (say it in a whisper) to schmoos a bit, as well as to attend divine service. Men have been known to smoke in shul if they wanted to, and children have slid up and down the floors and shot paper wads at each other and their elders. Even the most strenuous defender of the faithful must admit that no Christian child ever brought a "gefillte" fish sandwich and some pickles to church Yom Kippur day. And, all things being equal, Jewish women go to shul to show their clothes more than do Christian women. Anyway, what profiteth a woman to have clothes and not to appear in them where they have a high visibility? If they take her mind off prayer, well, that is one of the many attendant circumstances born of the limitations of human nature.

Then take the Jewish hail and farewell. Before either one, the restrained nod and smile exchanged between Christians grows colourless, pale. The Jewish greeting takes time. It is hearty and voluble even between partners, and usually includes exchange of information on a variety of subjects: health, prosperity, the children, the horses. Something might be done about it for synagogue use and the comfort of rabbis except that it is so time-honoured—like the sacred tradition of running in and out of shul a dozen times on the Day of Atonement, and lolling on the sidewalk in front of it. Probably the only thing for a rabbi to do after the saying of kaddish is to immerse himself quickly in more solemnity, for that should be a trying time. Kaddish means tears and even kaddish tears often mean repairs these days to a lady's toilet. It may have been just such an occasion that got Rabbi Wise into the papers with those biting remarks. Rabbi Cohen calls it all "house of worship manners."

Dr. Avery W. Skinner, of the New York State Department of Education, recently said that the Jewish boy in New York City has a zeal for study that puts to shame the boy of native American parentage. Referring to the complacency of students in high school these days, Dr. Skinner said that too many seem satisfied with a passing grade, an attitude marked among the American-born.

It is generally regarded as true that foreign-born children, or children of foreigners, outstrip the native-born in their studies. The Jewish student, thirsting for an education, eyes alight, arms out at the elbows, is an old established type. However, there is another side to the picture, and it concerns the declining zeal for knowledge among the second and third generations of those who once strove desperately. A type vastly different from the starving student has developed, different and equally significant. This newer figure is that of the Jewish pseudo-student, the college loafer. While there still may be many Jewish students willing to slave and starve and sleep on park benches to get an education, there are also many Jewish students in high schools and colleges occupied at nothing better than taking up room.

For the Jewish parent of any means has come to regard a college education for his son or daughter as a habit, a matter of course even to the point of forcing an unwilling one to be exposed to such an education, at least. A boy often has nothing to take him to university except the parent's desire and a poor or indifferent record at the preparatory school. Well-to-do parents, too indulgent with things and trimmings and trappings, acquiesce too readily in a course which they know means little more than four years of fun at best, and four years of noise, loafing, drinking, rowdyizing and sometimes worse.

The complacency which Dr. Skinner notes in high school children of the native-born American is not their monopoly. It is highly communicable among the children of those who have come away from the obstacles common to the immigrant and his family. Complacency and indifference toward education are becoming rooted among the Jews wherever education is not held out as opportunity or reward. L.f.c.

HALIFAX

The marriage of Esther, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weiner, of Halifax, N.S., to Jack Wolman, of Montreal, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis L. Wolman, of Montreal, was solemnized in the Robie Street Synagogue, Halifax, N.S., at 6 o'clock Sunday, January 9, Rabbi Levy officiated, assisted by Rabbi Rabinovitch. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of white georgette with beading of pearls and rhinestones. Her veil of hand-made French silk lace and net was held by a bandeau of orange blossoms arranged in coronet style, and she carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses with shower of lilies-of-the-valley. Mrs. Ned Wolman, of Montreal, the matron of honour, wore a gown of white georgette trimmed with rhinestones, with a hat to match, and she carried a bouquet of Columbia roses.

The best man was Bill Weiner, brother of the bride. Mrs. Charles Weiner, mother of the bride, wore a black satin gown trimmed with gold, and a corsage of Americas Beauties. Mrs. Louis Wolman, mother of the groom, wore a blue satin gown trimmed with beige georgette and rhinestones and a corsage of American Beauties. A sit-down supper was served for 125 guests at the dining room of Mr. Ottman, which was decorated with palms and cut flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Wolman left for a boat trip to Boston and other points. Going away the bride wore a two-tone beige dress, with hat to match, and a seal coat. Mr. and Mrs. Wolman will live in Halifax.

Dr. Norman Woldman, of Cleveland, Ohio, has been appointed head of the chemistry and metallurgy department of the graduate school of the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis. The appointment was recently announced by naval authorities. The position carries with it the title of senior grade lieutenant.

TWO OUTSTANDING TOURS

It has been truly said that "Travel is a liberal education," and this expression was never so true as it is to-day. The whole world, so to speak, has been made easy of access by transportation systems, by rail, ocean, automobile and aeroplane. While the advantages of travel are now available to the many instead of the few, the refinements of modern railroad transportation and the exacting requirements of the modern traveller as regards his creature comfort have combined to make the detailed arrangements of an extensive tourist trip rather complex. Every traveller making a vacation trip wishes to derive the utmost benefit in pleasure and education and to spend as little time as possible arranging its many details, the itinerary and train connections, securing sleeping car, steamer and hotel reservations, etc. He desires also to make the best possible use of the time available by the inclusion of the most important and worth-while attractions and, above all, to know how much it will cost.

All this is done for you in the "Personally Conducted All-Expense Tours," which have become so popular with the Canadian public, the best known and most popular being the splendid tours operated via the Canadian National Railways, under the direction of Mr. Martin Kerr, B.A. (4 Beulah Avenue, Hamilton, Ont.) and Mr. A. E. Bryson (44 Silverthorn Avenue, Toronto, Ont.), of the Kerr-Bryson Tours. Two more such tours are announced for July, 1927—one from Toronto through the Canadian West to the Pacific Coast, including Wainwright Park, Jasper National Park, the Triangle Tour, Vancouver and Victoria, B.C., returning through the United States via Yellowstone Park, Salt Lake City, Denver, Colorado Springs, Pike's Peak and Chicago; the other from Toronto, east to Montreal, Quebec, Ste. Anne de Beaupre, the Saguenay River, the Maritime Provinces, Saint John, N.B., Prince Edward Island, the Bras d'Or Lakes, Halifax, N.S., Land of Evangeline, Annapolis Valley, Boston, Mass., and finally Ottawa, the capital of the Dominion. Descriptive booklets of both these tours will be available very shortly and in the meantime further information may be secured from any Canadian National Railways agent or from the organizers.

If you have not previously been interested in these tours, it is well worth your while to enquire about them; they will solve your vacation problem.

NORTHERN ONTARIO CANADA

Northern Ontario, now open for settlement at fifty cents per acre, contains millions of acres of the finest agricultural land in the world. Its resources in lumber, mineral, water power, fish, game and scenery are immense. The land calls for men to cultivate it, and in return will give health, comfort and prosperity.

What settlers say of the soil, climate, farming and forest life, is told in a most attractive booklet issued under the direction of the Honourable John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario. Full instructions in regards to acquiring a title to these rich agricultural lands are also given.

of the new so-called Jewish Agency? The Zionist members of the concern will have behind them an organized nationalist sentiment, a background of idealism and heroism. There is a Zionist movement with a record of self-sacrifice and achievement. Whom will the non-Zionist members represent? The mass of negation with its implied affirmation of money?

WHAT OF THE JEWISH LIBRARY IN TORONTO?

There is still no Jewish library in Toronto.

In the Zionist Institute there is a small room containing several shelves which carry a microscopic collection of books.

Young Judaeans and their leaders frequent this room and consult these books.

There should be larger quarters available for a library. And there should be many more books on the shelves. And there should be stacks of periodicals and newspapers on the tables dealing with Jewish affairs.

And there should be many more people coming to the library to read and keep abreast of Jewish literature and thought. And with more reading and information there should be a better type of Jewish leadership.

students or their teachers or their equipment, and that is as it should be. Israel's future spiritual leaders should have the best to prepare them adequately for the arduous tasks of Jewish leadership. If the Union had accomplished nothing else but establish and maintain the Hebrew Union College, dayenou, it would have been enough.

But it has done more. It has organized and maintained a department of synagogue and school extension, which has (1) brought Judaism to isolated communities, which has (2) prepared text books for religious schools, which has (3) engaged educational experts to study the problems of Jewish religious education and to map out curricula, which has (4) organized in many communities Teachers' Institutes for the training of teachers for the religious schools, which is (5) now sending regional rabbis into small communities to organize congregations and schools, and which has (6) established religious schools in some of the large cities where Jewish children were untaught. Thus, we see that the Union has grappled and is grappling with the major tasks of Judaism.

The convention, of course, discussed money matters. The Union requires $600,000 a year to continue its present work and it is up to the 278 congregations who constitute its membership to raise that sum annually. It seems like a large amount, but the Jews of the North American continent will raise that amount annually to perpetuate their faith.

Three sessions were held at which the theme of discussion was "The Perpetuation of Judaism" from the point of view of the synagogue, the home and the youth. Rabbis, laymen, women, university professors, educational leaders and young men presented papers and participated in the discussion. Constructive criticisms were made and many helpful suggestions presented. The delegates present left better equipped to tackle the Jewish problems in their communities.

The World Union of Progressive Judaism organized last summer in London under the leadership of Claude Montefiore, was endorsed by the Union. A grandson of Lord Swaythling, now studying for the rabbinate, represented the liberal synagogue of London and made a fine plea for the Union's affiliation with liberal Jews the world over.

The outstanding achievement of the Convention was the adoption of a social justice programme. A debate of six hours' duration preceded the adoption of this programme. Some of the laymen were opposed to the drafting of any statement. This the rabbis vigorously opposed. The rabbis insisted that liberal Judaism, standing on the platform of the prophets of Israel, dares not evade making pronouncements on the vital issues of life. At the conclusion of the debate, the motion to recommit the report to the Social Justice Committee was defeated and then the social justice platform was almost unanimously endorsed. The synagogue was declared among other statements to be concerned in all human problems, and in duty bound to make pronouncements on all human rights. No longer can arrogant laymen ask the rabbi not to meddle in industrial and commercial warfare. This great Jewish religious body has re-emphasized the view of the prophets of Israel, that Judaism is vitally concerned with all human situations and its leaders must speak out on them with intelligence and courage.

The concluding session of the Convention witnessed the passage of a resolution to President Coolidge, urging him to submit to arbitration the issues between the United States and Mexico.

The convention was historic. Its discussions were stimulating and its decisions indicated that Judaism has not only a great past but a living present and that the religion founded by the prophets of Israel has a spiritual message for our day.

Solomon Small

And his daughter, Dorothy, who will give a recital of Yiddish songs, at the Talmud Torah, Sunday evening February 13.

YIDDISH POET AND COMPOSER TO GIVE RECITAL

Solomon Small, better known as "Smulewitz," is the composer of such well known Yiddish songs as "Dos Talisel" and some five hundred other popular Yiddish songs. Toronto music lovers will hear him, together with his sixteen-year-old daughter, Dorothy, at Talmud Torah Hall, Sunday evening, February 13, in a recital of songs, recitations and dramatic sketches. The programme will consist of sixteen numbers, including a musical comedy entitled "If I Only Had Luck," and a one-act dramatic sketch called "The Home for the Aged," with Dorothy impersonating the "Old Man." Leo Barkin, pianist, and Miss Sarah Barkin, coloratura soprano, will assist. A. Rhinewine, chairman.

Shuchter

In loving memory of our dear sister, Rachael Lillian Shuchter, who entered into rest January 28, 1926.

Hours of sadness still come o'er us,
Silent tears do often flow,
For in memory she is always near us,
Though she died one year ago.

Sadly missed by sisters, Mrs. Rose Rosenthal, Anna, and Maude Brown; brothers, Ben, Phil, Lou, Harry Brown.

Shumer

In loving memory of our dear mother, Rachael Lillian Shumer, who entered into rest January 28, 1926.

One year has gone, no one can tell
The loss of a mother we loved so well.
So unselfish her life, she answered the call;
And died as she lived, beloved by all.

Sadly missed by son, Elrick (Tootz) and daughter, Eva.
